

Mobile Burn Unit brings the training to the firefighters

Firefighters from North of Smokey learn from the various scenarios created in the Mobile Burn Unit and improve their ability to deal with different situations.

Special

The Mobile Burn Unit from the Nova Scotia Firefighter's School has been traveling around the province since it was purchased in the spring.

The unit is available for all firefighters in Nova Scotia.

It was in Neils Harbour August 4th, 5th and 6th for the firefighters North of Smokey.

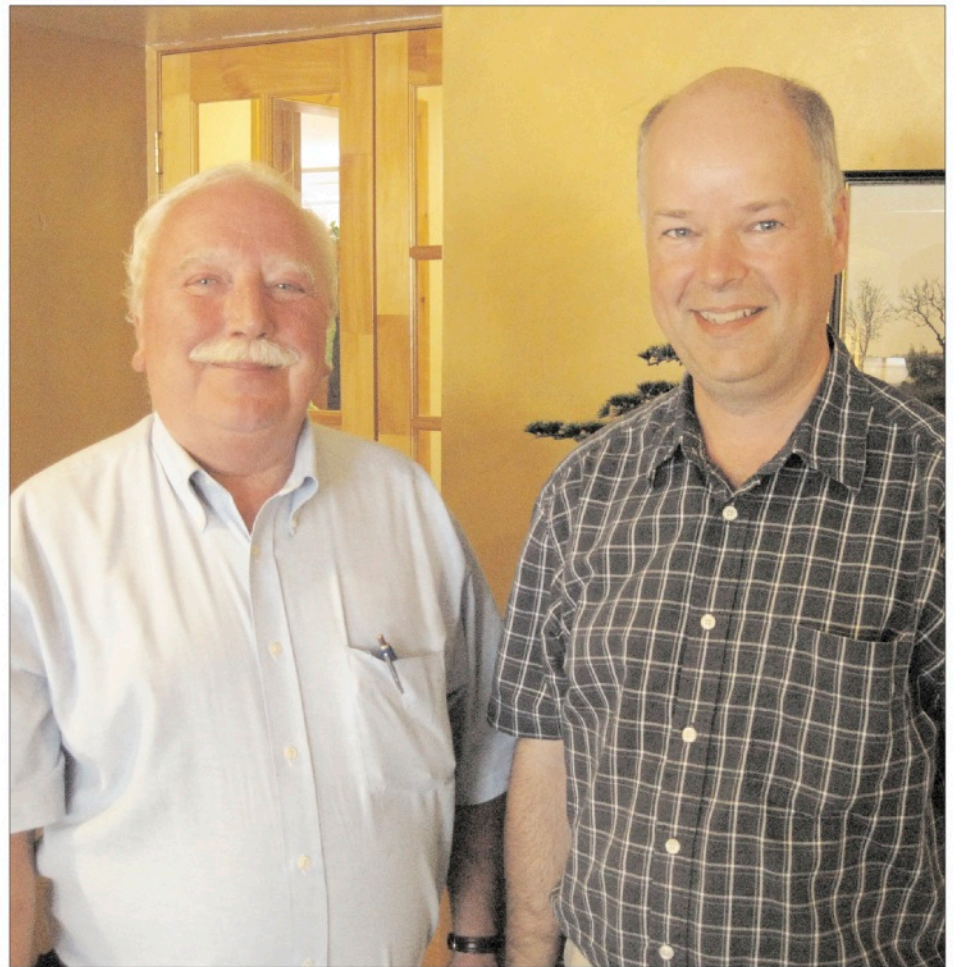

Firefighters from Bay St. Lawrence, Cabot, Neils Harbour, Ingonish, Ingonish Beach and North Shore

Fire Departments all had members in attendance.

Training inside the unit helps firefighters develop their skills in a controlled environment.

They trained in a hot environment going from a "routine" fire to a "rollover". It is training that usually could only be achieved at the Fire School in Waverley. The Mobile Burn Unit allows community volunteer firefighters to get the training they need without leaving their home area.

Bain's pick uncontested

Victoria-The Lakes MLA Keith Bain (L) was one of the first Members of the Legislature to endorse Jamie Baillie (R) for leader of the Nova Scotia Progressive Conservatives. Mr. Baillie went on to be uncontested in his bid to become party leader. Baillie will be stepping down from his job as Chief Executive Officer of Credit Union Atlantic when he takes over the leadership of the PC Party. "In spite of all the cynicism about politics, Nova Scotians still want to believe that it can be honourable and is meant to be in the service of others," he said.
