

94th Cape Breton Farmers' Exhibition

It's not all livestock at the annual Cape Breton Farmers' Exhibition in North Sydney, as attested to by the above photo, Kati MacDonald, of Baddeck is pictured making friends with Rose, a ball python, part of the Serpentine feature.

It's "Continuing Care" month

Pictured above is Alderwood Resident Lillian Mac Donald with Volunteer Katie Reashore. September is "Continuing Care Month" and celebrations across the province are recognizing the contributions continuing care organizations and employees make to our health system, communities and the lives of Nova Scotians. Health Association Nova Scotia and its members have chosen the theme, Above and Beyond Because We Care: Enriching Lives Everyday, to celebrate Continuing Care Month. The goal is to celebrate the many dedicated people committed to providing the best possible care and comfort is helping thousands of Nova Scotians to maximize their independence, promote their well-being, and enhance their quality of life.

On this Labour Day, as we celebrate and acknowledge the contributions of the workers of Nova Scotia, we say...

Thank You!

The workers of Nova Scotia are an integral and important sector of our economy. Our wish for these workers is for a happy and safe Holiday with their families.

Magical Colum Magic
